

Help Save Our Beloved Muktidham Preserve Its Future as a Healing Haven

Attend our events

December 29, 2010 7-9 PM

MahaSamadhi Satsang at Kevin Ilkov's home 801 Bowman Avenue in Wynnewood, PA 19096

February 6, 2011 1-4 PM

Silent Meditation at Muktidham

March 20, 2011 3-6PM

Belated Shivaratri and Spring Equinox celebration at Muktidham

"To Everything turn, turn-there is a season and a time for every purpose under heaven ~ A time to plant, a time to reap..."

This song from the Bible is a good reminder and wake up call to embrace a new season of challenge, opportunity, and blessings. Now is the time to take part in a great spiritual sowing and reaping. Muktidham, "the abode of liberation," Bapuji' Kripalu's sanctuary in Sumneytown, PA needs to be rescued again. This sacred shrine where Swami Kripalvananda, a modern Indian Saint and master of Yoga, meditated ten hours a day for four years (1977-1981 completing thirty years of daily meditation practice).

To save it from being sold or destroyed we formed a non-profit organization, Kripalvananda Yoga Institute and in January 2005, after almost losing Muktidham on the open market, we took it out of harms way.

Now the funds we raised to pay the mortgage and expenses urgently need to be replenished!

To insure its survival, we are calling on you and our circle of friends to preserve Muktidham as a shrine and center for spiritual practice. Anyone who comes to Muktidham with an open heart and willingness to serve in any way, will definitely be blessed. Just entering this sacred place infused with Swami Kripalu's powerful healing energy, can be an uplifting, life-transforming experience. Here, more than ever, you can feel this palpable presence. Now, even as you read this, you can open and connect with this place of liberation:

Imagine a peaceful sanctuary nestled in the woods where you can leave behind all cares and worries while diving into the center of your eternal spiritual source. Breathe and let yourself be completely renewed and reunited with the Spirit, as you bask and bathe in the sights and sounds of nature and the soft healing touch of divine love. Rest here and feel oneness with all. Once you make the external pilgrimage to Muktidham, you may find it easier to connect with this place of liberation inside yourself. You are reading this now and it is not by chance. Pause and appreciate this moment as an invitation to come home to this place of liberation. Welcome Home!

For more information, to make donations, or to be on the mailing list, visit our website at www.kyi-events.info or contact Liz Wanner at lizwanner11@comcast.net or HariSharana Zandler, 610-642-5621. We meet to share music, inspiration and meditation on the first Sunday of the month, 3:00PM at Muktidham in Sumneytown, PA, 4327 Geryville Pike.

Become a generous co-sponsor of Muktidham for less than $2.00 or $4.00 a day.